New York politics will be a very tame affair with John Kelly in the role of peace-maker.

Mr. Charles S. Cloland, of the town of Center, in this county, who has been nominated by the Democrats for county surveyor, refuses to stand as a candidate. He says he doesn't want to beat Captain Ruger, and therefore will get out of the race.

There will be a general regret that the Republicans have not a stronger ticket in Massachusetts. Bishop is a fair man, but will not arouse much enthusiasm. Crapo would probably have been better, but his support of the River and Harbor bill defeated him in the convention.

The man who is just now on the topmost wave of popularity, who is independent of all factions, and who is a stalwart in winning success, is James G. Blaine. He is doing more for the substantial success of the Republican party than any other Republican in the United States.

The Washington monument, which has been called a national disgrace for a number of years, has now reached the height of 302 feet. There are 253 feet more to be added, which will make it 555 feet high. It will be seen that the workmen have got something to do before the end of the monument is reached.

Three prominent citizens of Milwaukee—A. Y. H. Carpenter, Thomas E. Balding and Frank M. Wilkinson—had the 33d degree, Ancient Accepted Scottish rite, confirmed upon them by the Supreme Council of Sovereign Grand Inspectors, which recently held a session in Boston. Henry L. Palmer of Milwaukee, the highest Masonic officer in the United States, presided at the conferring of the degree.

To-morrow will be held the Independent Mass Convention at Delavan. If all persons who are opposed to the National Treasury being plundered by our public servants; who are in favor of retrenchment in our public expenditures; who are in favor of the reduction of taxation; and in favor of sustaining President Arthur in his veto of the River and Harbor bill," would go to Delavan to-morrow, the township would not be able to hold the people. But there are thousands of Republicans in this Congressional district who believe in these things, who will not go to Delavan, but who will stand by Mr. Williams.

The Madison Democrat seems to think that General Fairchild will not consent to be a candidate in the Third district, and receives the proposition to thrust him in the Keyes-Hazelton breach, as a good-natured joke. It can hardly be said that it would be playing second-fiddle to accept a nomination unanimously, when the other candidates are out of the way. General Fairchild might do a worse thing than run for the Third Congressional district. He would be sure of an election and would give additional strength to the Wisconsin delegation in Congress.

An item has appeared in several papers to the effect that Congressman Williams refused to settle the bill of the editor of the Gazette two years ago when he invited him to attend the Geneva Congressional convention. It was such an insignificant matter that the attention of Mr. Williams was never called to it, and here the matter dropped till the Racine News took it up as a "campaign document." Such a trifling affair was considered by the editor of the Gazette as being unworthy of attention, and the attacks of the News and the public discussion on the streets in relation thereto, show how far out of the way the opposition will go for an opportunity to do Mr. Williams an injustice.

A dispatch from Racine to the Milwaukee Sunday Telegraph gives this strange idea of the situation in the First district: "It is thought here that Gen. W. L. Utley will be the candidate of all the opposition to Williams, although John Winans, of Janesville, has many friends, but as he is a hard money democrat he will hardly receive the support of the greenbackers, and yet it is difficult to see how the hard money democrats can support Utley, who is a republican greenbacker."

It is not at all possible that Colonel Utley will be the candidate of the opposition against Mr. Williams. He couldn't get a respectable guard to follow him. The result will be the same no matter who the opposition nominates; but the idea of uniting on Utley would be one of the lamest political movements for the opposition imaginable. The Republicans do not propose to slumber during this campaign nor allow an inch of ground to be lost, but their majority would be largely increased by the candidacy of Utley.

There is a general impression that the Republicans will have to do some desperate work to carry New York this year. They labor under two especial disadvantages—first that they are not strongly united; and second, that the Democrats are not only working in harmony, but they have a strong ticket. In 1879, when Governor Cornell was elected, the following vote was cast:

Cornell, Republican	416,547
Robinson, Democratic	375,790
Kelly, Tammany Democrat	77,566
Lewis, National and Workingmen	29,286
Mills, Prohibitionist	4,197

The Tammany troubles have been healed, and with a united party will stand an excellent chance to carry the State. This is a time when the political power of Mr. Conkling will be put to a severe test. He and his followers made a desperate fight against Cornell and succeeded in nominating Secretary Folger. Folger is a strong man, and if he is elected against the combined influence of the Democratic party and the lukewarmness of the Cornell Republicans, Mr. Conkling will have achieved an astonishing victory.

The Folly of Funerals.

In the whole range of follies which fashion ordains, there is not one so senseless, or of such magnitude, as the present style of conducting funerals. At the best they are indelicate and in bad taste. Often they are barbarous. The immediate mourners are expected to abandon themselves to a luxury of hopeless grief. Anything like philosophical serenity or Christian fortitude will expose them at once to suspicion. Everything is made as harrowing as possible. In a few days, to be sure, the patience of their friends will give out. The bereaved ones will then be expected to control themselves and attend to the business of their lives like other people. But at the time of the funeral, anything like common sense and prudence is regarded as heartlessness. The most utter thoughtlessness is only considered as a proof of the worth of the dead person and the sincerity of his mourners. In this way has come about a fashion of funerals so disproportionately expensive that no sane person but an undertaker would attempt to justify them. Hundreds of dollars are spent at an average funeral, which are for the most part cruelly wasted. The only possible result is to make a show which gratifies nobody, and which is in no wise an expression of proper respect. Such exhibitions please none but vulgar tastes. They are offensive to a right minded person, if that person is a stranger. If he is in sorrow, he knows and cares nothing about the whole formality. His heart and mind are too full. If there is a display, he is unconscious of it. Wrapped in the agony of a great loss, no outside sight or sound can reach him. What comfort is it to a broken-hearted mother to know that twenty-five handsome carriages follow the one she is in, to the cemetery? The ghastly, grewsome things they call "caskets," often cost hundreds of dollars. When a man spends all his little savings to put his dead wife in one, does he not know, if he be allowed to think, that she, herself, would have thought it far better that that money should be spent for the children? Can a fine funeral atone to a dead woman for one unkind word? If in some other life she knows what is done here, would it not please her better to know that that thousand dollars has been given to some one she loved who needed it—her mother or her sister?

It may be said that a very rich man, at any rate, should not be criticised for spending money lavishly at such a time, but this is a mistake. He has a plain duty in the matter which he should not disregard. He has no right to sustain a fashion which may be a burden to his poor neighbor. Because grief is imprudent, and error can not count, the custom of good people should protect them and not impose on their helplessness. It may be a little thing for a rich man to pay five hundred dollars for the burying of his dead child, but it is a cruel thing for him to make the poor man next door say in the bitterness of mourning, "He loved his child no better than I loved mine; now they are dead, there shall be no difference between them." Many a hard working man has denied himself for years to keep up a small life insurance and has died clinging to the thought that his wife and babes, at least, had a few thousand dollars to live on. Six months from that time the mourning clothes, the monument and the undertaker's bill will have exhausted the last dollar of it.

The influence of this fashion on the lower classes of society every observer knows to be simply destructive. The colored people in particular go to great lengths in this direction. With an extreme desire to do as white people do, and much impressibility of feeling, they spend all they have and lay heavy burdens of debt on themselves which they are unable to carry, and then, in turn, as paupers, come on the community at large. It is the duty of a good citizen to use his influence against this folly, and while it is hard to lay down an exact rule, it may be said that in regard to the fitness of things, few funerals should cost more altogether than a hundred dollars.—Indianapolis Herald.

Unworthy Influence.

Many persons are prejudiced against proprietary medicines. They do not know why. Many narrow-minded doctors condemn them without knowing or caring to know in the least about them—solely through principle and self-interest. These are mostly young and inexperienced in practice. "Prejudice is strong where the judgment is weak." Many physicians, with better and more liberal ideas and education, endorse those remedies which they find most efficacious for the diseases for which they are recommended. One of these, strongly endorsed, and coming into popular use, for the Liver and Dyspepsia, is ZOPESA. 8 oz. bottles 75c, 6 dr. 10c. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

GREAT RAIN.

Many Persons Precipitated Into a Torrent at Plainfield, N. J.

Bridges, Dams, Railroad Tracks, Mills and Warehouses Swept Away.

NEW YORK, Sept 24.—The rainfall yesterday at New York and Jersey City is reported at five inches, and great damage has resulted. The races at Coney Island were run in the heaviest storm of the season. The flood has proved very disastrous to the railroads in process of construction along the Hudson river. Philadelphia and its suburbs felt the force of the storm, which still continues at most points in the middle states.

The worst effects of the storm are seen in New Jersey, where the people living along the Passaic, Hackensack, and other rivers are fairly panic-stricken. In Paterson sixteen inches of water have fallen, and a terrible freshet is apprehended. Many sewers have burst, hundreds of cellars are full of water, and the Passaic river touches the girders of the bridges. The wreckage of two mills and several bridges was swept over the Passaic falls to-day. In Plainfield a little stream called Green Brook rose five feet in three-quarters of an hour. The flood rose nearly to a level with the top of Grove street bridge, and a crowd of seventy-five persons gathered on it to watch the freshet. There was not the slightest idea of danger, when, without an instant's warning, twenty feet of the bridge, which is thirty feet wide, sank into the torrent that had undermined its foundations. The water was dotted with heads for 300 yards below the bridge. The brook keeps a narrow course and then enlarges into a pond. The current carried the victims through this slight course to the pond. A dozen men plunged into the water in different places and succeeded in bringing to land two ladies and six men, all of whom were bruised and cut, and two nearly drowned. At least a dozen people went down with the bridge, and eight only were saved. It is believed that when the waters subside several bodies will be discovered in the debris of the railroad arch or on the shores of the stream. There is serious trouble at Newark, Somerville, Bound Brook and other places.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 24.—Eleven inches of rain has fallen here within the past seventy-two hours. Schuylkill river has risen six feet, and reports come in that the water is still rising at Fairmount dam. Along the line of the various railroads centering here considerable damage has been done. Travel on the New York division of the Pennsylvania railroad has been suspended, owing to the washing away of a bridge at Holmesburg and the giving way of a large section of the track between Holmesburg and Frankford. Other washouts were reported along the line. The most serious washout on the Bound Brook route is at Bound Brook, but the leading company proposes to run a train through at midnight and is soliciting trade for New York at the depot of the Pennsylvania railroad company. Five hundred passengers on the Pennsylvania railroad from New York were brought to the city by boat from Bristol. On the West Jersey road between Wenonah and Barnsboro there was a washout, carrying off embankment in some places thirty feet high. Trains on the Burlington and Pemberton railroad in New Jersey were stopped by heavy rain.

Breaks in sewers in this city have been numerous and serious, and street-car travel is hindered. A large portion of "The Neck" below the city is under water, and farmers there will suffer heavy losses.

At Reading the rain-storm was the heaviest known for years. Some of the country roads are impassable. Some live stock is reported drowned in the rapidly swelling streams and many hay stacks swept away.

At Newton, Pa., several buildings have been washed away and others injured. Four men were rescued from trees. A washout on the Newton railroad prevents the running of trains.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—All the railroad trains passing through New Jersey were greatly interfered with by the storm. There were no trains between New York and Philadelphia on the Pennsylvania road between Saturday afternoon and 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon owing, to washouts near Rahway and the carrying away of the bridge at Hohnsburg. The Philadelphia Sunday papers did not reach here until last night and the Chicago newspaper mail of Friday morning was not distributed until 12 o'clock last night.

In Ocean county the damage will exceed $100,000. The greatest damage is to mill property. Black river, a little stream, rose on Saturday at the rate of a foot an hour, and broke over the lowlands. At Seaview was Cousins' hotel, a famous resort for sportsmen. All that is left of this place now is its foundation. At Bellows Falls mills the dam broke, but the mill was saved by fortifying the approach to the property with sandbags. The turnpikes throughout the county are impassable. Live stock were drowned, haystacks were destroyed, and thousands of acres of corn are almost a total loss. The same story comes from Monmouth and Middlesex counties. South Amboy fared the worst, lying as it does at the mouth of Raritan river. Rahway river is choked to-day with logs and timber. The fragments of broken bridges have done much damage to the railway bridges spanning Raritan bay and Rahway river. The storm did much damage at Elizabeth, owing to the overflowing of the Elizabeth river, which runs through the heart of the city. The stream has not been swollen to such a height before in fifty years. Many houses were inundated up to the second stories, and many families barely escaped with their lives in the darkness on Saturday night when the flood was at its height. To add to the perilous situation the upper end of the stream broke, precipitating an immense body of water into the river. The large stone bridges at Grand and Jersey streets were completely submerged, and the Pennsylvania railroad bridge and the fine structure spanning the river at South Brown street narrowly escaped destruction. The storm was severely felt at Rahway, as the Rahway river overflowed its banks throughout its course through the city, and lumber and other property were swept away by the current. At one time it was feared that the fine railway bridge of the Pennsylvania road would give way under the immense pressure of water.

At Trenton the creek which runs through its center was overflowed, creating a large lake about a mile in length and six hundred yards in width. From this a torrent rushed to the Delaware river. Rubber-mills, factories, glue-factories, slaughter-houses, ice-houses, dwellings, barns, outhouses and sheds were submerged, and many of them sent adrift. Railroad tracks, depots, and bridges on the Pennsylvania line were washed away and travel was entirely suspended. Small boats could be sailed around the main depot, and crates of cars were submerged up to the windows. The principal sufferers in that city are the Pennsylvania railroad company, $25,000; John Taylor, slaughter-house, $7,000; Star Rubber company, $5,000; Whitehead Rubber company, $10,000; Wilson's woolen-mills, $5,000; John Winter, saloon, $5,000; John Entzenlorfer, glue manufacturer, $2,000; International pottery, $5,000; miscellaneous, about $50,000.

In Bound Brook at 10 o'clock Saturday night the water, which was very high already, began to rise suddenly. In a short time it was flowing through Main street, and soon reached a depth of from eight to ten feet, with a very rapid current. In the stores the water rose to the show cases on the counter and a large amount of valuable goods were ruined. The more cautious merchants had piled their goods from the floors on the counters before closing up, never imagining that the water would do more than wet their floors. In the Ernstein woolen mill, the water ran over the looms. The proprietor hired men at $2 per hour to work in the mills, saving as much as possible. The mills cannot get to work in less than a month, and the loss will be $10,000, besides depriving two hundred employes of work until they start up. The Lehigh Valley and New Jersey Central railroad tracks were submerged to a depth of three feet. To-night the water is still two feet deep in Main street. The total damage in New Jersey resulting from the storm will exceed $1,500,000. At 2 o'clock Sunday morning a clear sky was visible for the first time in four days, and the floods subsided in most places almost as rapidly as they had arisen.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Sept. 25.—Fromah's dam, in this city, the last but one remaining in Green brook from its source to its mouth, fifteen miles, gave way at 10 o'clock last night. The rush of waters carried down two frame buildings over the brook at Somerset street, and washed a large hole in the side of a four-story brick carriage factory owned by C. M. French. The building did not fall, but is liable to do so at any time. All the contents were removed at daylight, and crowds have been watching all day to see it go down. The remaining arches of the Grove street bridge were washed away, and all but two or three of the bridges over the brook to its mouth, at Bound Brook, seven miles distant. The loss to the owner of the dam and factory will be $5,000. The counties of Union and Somerset will be put to great expense to repair the nine bridges over Green brook. The Grove street bridge alone cost $5,000. A boy named Fred Moore has been missing since Saturday morning, and it is feared that he went down with the Grove street bridge and was drowned. All the other persons reported missing are accounted for. Those injured by the plunge into the stream are doing well.

The force of the current was so great as to wash out telegraph poles along the stream. Stony brook swept away all dams and bridges in the gap through the mountains, a mile from here, and destroyed the only road by which people in Washington valley can reach this city. One milkman started to return to his home in that valley at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. He first had to abandon his wagon, and tried to get through on horseback. His horse went next, and he finally reached home on foot at 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 25.—Washington, for the first time in many months, is cut off from communication from the north. It has been more since the railroad communications have been so long interrupted. Passengers due here at 6 o'clock yesterday morning had not arrived at 9 last night, and all the northern mails are delayed by the flood, which has carried away several bridges and washed away portions of the track of the Pennsylvania road between Philadelphia and Jersey City. The rain fell along the line for over sixty hours, and there never was so great a fall known in this locality before in the records of the civil service. The total fall in the three days of rain was about ten inches. The railroad officials promise a resumption of through travel to-day.

POLITICS.

The Democrats Jubilant in New York.

They Claim that Their Factions are United While the Republicans Are Still Divided.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—A New York special to The Times says: The political contest opens in this state with union in the Democratic ranks and with bitter feeling and much dissension among the Republicans. For once a Democratic convention did a wise thing at the critical moment, and there is every prospect that the device adopted at Syracuse to secure harmony will serve its purpose for the present canvass, and bring to the ticket the united Democratic vote of this city. The immense vote of the state of New York is so evenly divided between the two parties when both are united that a contest between them on equal terms is always doubtful. Unfortunately for the Republicans it can not be claimed that they are at present heartily united, and in a position to exert their full strength. There is very ugly feeling among the Cornell men, who urge that they were defeated by forgery and bribes. The Albany Journal and The New York Times all but bolt the nomination, and The Buffalo Express, it is said, will support Cleveland. The Utica Herald, The Syracuse Journal, and The Rochester Democrat can not give very enthusiastic support to the ticket even if they pretend to swallow the dose. The Times and The Tribune of this city say more in praise of the Democratic ticket than they said of the Republican nominations. The Times says: "The nomination of Mayor Cleveland, of Buffalo, for the office of governor, is likely to prove one of exceptional strength and popularity. He appears to represent not only the better element and higher character of the Democracy of the state, but partisanship apart, some of the best qualities of our civic and politic life. He seems to belong to the type of rising public men of which Comptroller Pattison, of Philadelphia, is another Democratic example, and Mayor Low, of Brooklyn, is one of whom the Republicans are justly proud. It will be as well to admit his merits and his strength, and face the fact that he will be a hard man to defeat in such a canvass as is now fairly opened in this state."

The Tribune says: "The nomination of Mayor Cleveland means hard work for the Republicans. Yesterday's convention means a united Democratic party with all that that implies. There must be a united Republican party to face it, if the Republican ticket is to be elected this fall."

A great many Republicans are disgusted with the part that Jay Gould took in the defeat of Cornell. As a political boss they have even a less liking for Gould than as a Wall street speculator. They believe that Folger owes his nomination mainly to Gould's influence, and they look upon this fact as so significant and dangerous that they will either vote for Cleveland or will not vote at all.

The Democrats are jubilant over the situation. They claim that Cleveland will draw a great many Republican votes in the western part of the state. His is the section of the state that has been strongly opposed to Conkling. Nearly all the western New York delegates, with the exception of the Buffalo city representatives, were strongly in favor of Wadsworth or Cornell, and not against Folger. Folger's own home went against him. It is argued, therefore, that the Democratic candidate will make large gains west of Cayuga, in a region that usually goes strongly Republican. Many Republicans say the administration has made a grave mistake, and that if Folger is defeated, as he probably will be, it will be the death-blow to Arthur's aspirations for a second term.

The Whipping-Post and Pillory.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 25.—Seven black men, two white men and one white boy were publicly whipped in the jail-yard at Newcastle this morning, in the midst of a driving rain. The black men took their punishment as a matter of course. Six received twenty and one ten lashes. The white prisoners, one of whom received forty lashes, suffered excruciating agony all through, jumping and begging for mercy. The boy's misery was pitiful, and his back was badly mutilated, although the sheriff was lenient with his blows. Two white men and one black man stood for an hour in the pillory, being drenched to the skin.

Germany.

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—The delegates to the German temperance societies assembled in convention have resolved to join with the national Temperance league of England in a common effort to propagate and foster temperance sentiment and legislation in both countries.

The entire press congratulates Prince Bismarck on the twentieth anniversary of his entrance into the Prussian ministry. The opposition journals, while condemning his home policy, warmly refer to the services he has rendered the nation.

RAILWAY HORROR.

Frightful Disaster to Sells Bros. Circus Train---Fifteen Cars Roll Down an Embankment--Three Persons Killed and a Number Badly Injured.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept 24.—A Courier-Journal Lancaster (Ky.) special says about 3:30 p. m., as the first of three special trains conveying Sells Bros. show from Richmond were coming around the curve, 300 yards from Paint Lick, the fourth car from some unknown cause jumped the track and rolled down the embankment, followed by the balance of the train in its rear, consisting of fifteen cars.

The cars were loaded principally by the baggage of the company, tableaux wagons, electric light machine and a cage containing the tiger.

Several attaches were scattered along on the train, and the destruction to life and property was fearful.

Three men were instantly killed, three probably fatally wounded, and seven or eight wounded.

Two of the killed were attaches of the circus, and the third, William Underwood, a boy from Mt. Vernon, Ky., who was stealing a ride on the train.

The cage containing the tiger was burst open, the fierce animal turned out, creating much consternation, everyone being afraid to go near it until daylight, when the door was opened, and the tiger, which was crouching near by, crept back into his prison and was secured.

The electric light and tableaux wagons were completely destroyed.

The track was torn up over 100 yards, and the cars piled into a confused mass upon each other.

The engine, with three front cars, escaped uninjured, and were immediately dispatched to Lancaster for surgeons and coffins.

A force of men were at once put to work, and by 5 o'clock this evening the track was cleared, but Sells declined to go on to London to fill his engagement to-morrow, and will rest at Silver Creek and go to Lebanon to-morrow to fill an engagement there Tuesday.

The exact cause of the accident is unknown, there being several reports about it. An official investigation will be necessary to arrive at the truth.

COLLIDING IN MID-OCEAN.

The Steamer Edam Striking the Lepanto and Sinking--Two Lives Lost.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The steamer Lepanto, Capt. Rogers, arrived yesterday from Hull, Eng., reports having collided Sept. 21 with the steamer Edam, which foundered. Capt. Rogers says: "Sept. 21 we were steering west, when the weather became foggy. I told the chief engineer that if the fog continued we should go slow, and directed him to ease steam down at once. I also began to blow the steam-whistle at intervals of two minutes. The fog lifted a little, but by 10 o'clock there was again a thick fog. The engines were put at half-speed. At 10:10 I heard a whistle close to us on the port bow, and stopped the engines, put the helm hard aport, and ordered full speed astern. At 10:12 I heard a whistle and saw a masthead-light very close, bearing west-southwest, and at the same time made it out to be a vessel crossing our bows from south to north. At 10:15 we came into collision with the steamer, which dragged right across our bows, her propeller going all the time. After getting clear, I stopped the engines, sounded the compartments, and found them making no water. I then lowered three boats to give assistance to the other ship if needful. At 11:30 the boats of the Edam, three in all, arrived alongside with the passengers and the crew, who were at once taken up by us. Our own boats soon returned, bringing the chief officers of the Edam, its quartermaster, steward and two passengers, and were hoisted up, as were also two of the Edam's boats. On examination of the compartment which was in collision I discovered a large aperture broken and found that the bow-plates were stove in. I immediately got two large sails over the bows and filled up the lower fore peak with bags of sawdust and planking. Early on the morning of the 22d a pilot-boat hailed us, and was engaged for $500 to accompany the Lepanto into port, there now being on board 125 persons. We passed soon by the wreck of the Edam, which seemed to blow up as she went down. The passengers rescued were made as comfortable as possible, I myself giving up my room to the women, and the other passengers made the most of the small cabin accommodation. The third engineer and the assistant engineer of the Edam were lost.

The Egyptian Situation.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Gen. Wood, with two regiments, proceeded to Damietta, where Abdella Pasha surrendered at the railway station. One of the latter's black regiments plundered the barracks and private residences and fled with all the ammunition it could carry away. Two men implicated in the June massacre were hanged at Alexandria yesterday. The British cavalry made a demonstration at Cairo to overawe the Arabs. Several partisans of Arabi Pasha still hold government appointments under Egyptian ministry.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—It would appear that a gendarmerie for Egypt is already being organized in Europe, as a party of enrolled men have started from Genova. Their pay is from 150 to 300 francs per month, and French and Italians are ineligible. General Wolseley and Admiral Seymour will be raised to the peerage for their distinguished services. The Khedive has offered the British consul general the grand cross of the order of Osmanli. A solemn thanksgiving service was held yesterday in the Catholic church at Alexandria. British troops dismounted the guns at Ghemileh, and the people have resumed their ordinary vocations. The Khedive has requested that his route of entry into Cairo be past the houses of Arabi Pasha and Tewfik Pasha. It is generally believed that no rebels will be executed, but that they will be banished and their property confiscated.

Withdrawing Support from Chalmers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—It is understood that the emissary sent to Washington to confer with the Republican committee on behalf of General Chalmers was unsuccessful in his appeal for aid to overthrow the Bourbon power in the shoe-string district of Mississippi. The amount of adverse criticism made on the new southern policy of the committee has had its effect. Ex-Senator Bruce, who some time ago agreed to antagonize the candidate of his own party and his own race in order to help Chalmers, has been compelled by the force of public opinion to back water. The same force, it is said, has also compelled the Republican committee to withdraw its offer of support to Chalmers.

Folger and the New York Democratic Ticket.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—Secretary Folger, who went to New York last night to remain about ten days, said to a friend just before starting that he thought the Democrats could have nominated a stronger ticket, and one more difficult to beat. He thought that while Mr. Cleveland might run ahead of his ticket in western New York, he would lose more votes in New York city than he would gain elsewhere. Mr. Folger spoke very confidently of his own election, and said he had received many dispatches from Democratic merchants assuring him of their support.

A Contested Will.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 25.—The heirs of Francis L. Farmer are contesting a will which gave $5,000 to Bishop Chatard and $2,000 to four children, leaving $100,000 to accrue for the benefit of the estate.

The President.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—The date of President Arthur's visit to Boston and Marshfield has been, at his request, fixed at Oct. 11 and 12.

The weak, worn, and dyspeptic should take COLDEN'S LIEBIG'S LIQUID BEEF AND TONIC INVIGORATOR. Ask for Colden's, of druggists.

THE PRESS.

The New York Associated Press Torn by Internal Disunions.

Some of the Papers Object Vigorously to Being Swallowed.

NEW YORK, Sept 25.—The attack made by by The Herald, Times, and Journal of Commerce upon the four other members of the New York Associated Press, which were represented as willing to place the business of the association under the control of Jay Gould, attracted considerable attention. The force of the attack was, however, weakened by the fact that it was based on the alleged surrender of The Sun to Mr. Gould, which to the public would appear rather unlikely, inasmuch as The Sun is daily printing very denunciatory remarks about Gould, and during the past week has called him nearly all the bad names in the dictionary. The four papers attacked were The Tribune, World, Sun and Mail and Express. The World has the following to say on the subject to-morrow: "If it should ever become necessary in the interest of truth or of the public to disregard the sensible rule of conduct adopted nearly ten years ago, and binding still in honor upon the respectable members of the New York Associated Press, that the proceedings of the association be considered private. The World may possibly have a word or two to say in regard to an extraordinary and grotesque attack on the majority of the Associated Press, which was yesterday made simultaneously in three New York newspapers constituting a minority of the association. Oddly enough these happen to be three papers which, through the courtesy and confidence of their associates, have hitherto furnished the association with a president and with two members of the executive committee." The Mail and Express to-night denies that Gould exerted or can exert any control over its action, and says it has mailed proofs of this fact to James Gordon Bennett.

The Sun says; "There is a just and justifiable hostility toward the interference of Jay Gould with the press of the country. The Times, The Herald, and The Journal of Commerce regard Mr. Gould's schemes and purposes with a natural and creditable detestation, and in this feeling we fully share; but we regret to say that they do not seem to us to be in a state of mind to resist his machinations with sense and efficiency. In fact, the course that they are inclined to pursue is, in our judgment, a course whose result can only be favorable to Gould's designs. Instead of uniting the independent press of the country in an effort to maintain its independence, and to resist the manipulations and the projects of Gould, our three contemporaries seem to us to be pursuing a policy which renders the success of the independent press against him exceedingly difficult, and tends to promote Gould's purposes most effectively. It is not practicable for a limited number of half-crazy men to beat Jay Gould. It takes judgment and coolness to do that, and we prefer to exercise those qualities." In this case, as in all others, The Tribune makes no allusion to the matter.

The Journal of Commerce says: "More recently there sprang up a difference between the Western Union Telegraph company and the New York association, and Mr. Gould and Gov. Morgan, in behalf of the telegraph company, met a committee of the press to negotiate for a settlement. In that interview Mr. Gould laid claim, on behalf of the Western Union company, to the right to be interested in the collection and sale, as well as the transmission of news, and proposed a joint partnership between the New York press and the telegraph company for that purpose. This having failed, a new proposition was brought forward to join the Western Associated Press, the telegraph company and the New York press in such a partnership. It was evident to most, if not all, of the members of the New York association that any connection of the telegraph company with the collection and the sale of the news would be disastrous to both parties. It is even now more than hinted that when any profit can be made out of such leakage no private dispatch containing important intelligence is safe on the telegraph wires. But suppose the telegraph company was a partner in the profits to be realized out of furnishing the news, and it was made a part of the duty of every telegraph operator to send any interesting intelligence of any kind that came under his notice to headquarters, who believes that any private dispatch embodying such news would be held sacred, and the specials which each large newspaper in the country now receives from its own agents would also be typed for this purpose? Or, if not they were not, and the telegraph company acted in the most noble and disinterested manner in refusing to profit by what others might intrust to its wires, the natural distrust on the part of its customers would be sufficient to cut off a great portion of its business."

The Post says: "There is, we believe, another issue involved in the controversy—whether the Associated Press shall allow itself to be forced into an exclusive contract with the Western Union Telegraph company binding all its members and clients to give all their business, general and special, to the Western Union Telegraph company, under a threat that if such a contract is not made the latter will take the news business into its own hands. We can understand how The Sun may desire to avoid a quarrel of this kind without intending ever to admit the telegraph company into a partnership into the news business. The exclusive contract system, however, is manifestly a species of tyranny, and ought to be resisted upon grounds of public as well as private policy."

Gladstone's Triumph.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Smalley's London special to The Tribune, says: Mr. Gladstone's triumph in Egypt is a crushing blow to his opponents at home. Tory orators are reduced to such mentions as that of Lord Bury, who, having been under secretary for war in the last government, coolly takes credit for all the arrangements of the present war and suggests that the war was precipitated to re-establish Mr. Gladstone's reputation. The same spirit has shown itself in many of the party organs, proving the strong position the government has assumed in the popular estimation. Nevertheless it is perfectly true that Mr. Gladstone has ridden off under the smoke of the guns at Tel-el-Kebir. The Tories' only hope is that he may blunder in the conference. Lord Dufferin shares the congratulations heaped upon Sir Garnet Wolseley by the Irishmen. Whether by the stupidity of the Porte or by careful design, he kept the Turks out of Egypt and prevented the execution of the commission given the sultan without offending the powers. The Times says he is a worthy successor to Stratford de Radcliffe.

The Record Beaten.

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 25.—The record of the man in Washington who recently took out twenty-nine certified copies of marriage certificates, to be used in collecting as many policies in marriage endowment associations, was beaten here to-day by Fred L. Martin, who, for a similar purpose, got at the probate judge's office in this county thirty-two certified copies of his marriage license. He was married to Mattie A. Reed.

Government Telegraph.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—A proposition that the government buy all the telegraph lines outside of the Gould system, is being agitated here and at New York. It is received with considerable favor here by government officials of rank, and informal offers to sell have been made by some of the smaller companies. The project meditates the absorption of the Mutual Union, Baltimore & Ohio, Lehigh, American, Bankers' & Merchants', Postal, Chicago & Milwaukee and Board of Trade companies, the new Baltimore & Ohio Cable company and the Central and South American cable. The government now has about 4,850 miles of telegraph line in operation throughout the territories, over which commercial and a general business is transacted for the benefit of the public. The immediate cause of the present agitation is the rumor that Jay Gould, through the consolidated lines controlled by him, was influencing the press market reports, but there have long been advocates of the project who have watched the success of the plan in Great Britain and wish the postoffice department to have control. The active support of the plan in New York by Mr. Bennett, of The Herald, has given it a great start.

A BIG BREAK.

The Failure of Alonzo Follett a Very Serious Affair.

His Liabilities Are Estimated All the Way from $400,000 to $600,000.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Alonzo Follett, the note-broker, whose embarrassment was announced Saturday, made an assignment to Solomon Hanford, a lawyer. No preferences were given. Follett and John S. Tuttle, a retired leather merchant, are the proprietors of an extensive nursery in Bloomington, Ill. Bradstreet's agency received a telegram from that place to-day stating that Follett's interest in the nursery had been attached by Richardson, of New York city, and the sheriff had taken possession. The property attached is worth over $125,000. The nursery firm of Tuttle & Follett is rated as being worth $400,000 to $500,000, and the credit has been strong. The only other creditors of Follett who have made their claims public are Southwick, Schultz & Co., $15,000; Rossiter & Skidmore, $6,000; H. K. & F. B. Thurber, $2,000, and Henry Worner, $2,500. The estimate of Follett's liabilities are between $400,000 and $600,000. These liabilities are understood to have been principally incurred in two days by receiving paper from his customers for which he cannot now make returns, and by borrowing funds to use in his business. It has been customary with some mercantile houses to practically bank with the note-broker with whom they deal. They deposit with him all their bills receivable, receiving credit for the same on his books, allowing him to negotiate the paper as he soon fit and receiving from him the proceeds in installments as they need money. Under this system the broker has been at liberty to hypothecate paper which has been left with him, using the loans obtained upon it to pay which-ever of his customers he chooses. This system has resulted in disaster to Mr. Follett. It now rests with general condemnation by officers of banks and other institutions that are the principal purchasers of or borrowers upon commercial paper. Another innovation to which notice has been called by Follett's suspension is the practice of some houses of holding their bills receivable for collection, and giving their own notes, indorsed by some retired business man of wealth for such funds as they may desire to use from time to time. Follett has placed a good deal of paper of this nature, and among its indorsers have been his friends Jacob Van Wagoner and John S. Tuttle, elderly gentlemen, who retired from the leather business a number of years ago with large fortunes. Mr. VanWagoner has been rated as a banker possessing a capital of $1,000,000. Mr. Tuttle is represented as being worth $500,000. The banks which hold paper indorsed by these gentlemen are desirous of learning the amount each has indorsed. Friends say Follett's assets equal his liabilities. His business has, according to all appearances been a very profitable one, as he handled millions of dollars worth of the most desirable commercial paper in the market. So far as is known, he has only met with one loss of any considerable magnitude, and that was of $100,000. He guaranteed notes to that amount for a customer who failed. The opinion is that he has been led into grain, stock, or mining speculations.

CARTER HARRISON'S PROSPECTS.

Dazzling Theories Concerning the Speakership, Senatorship and Presidency.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—The Tribune, discussing Mayor Harrison's proposed candidacy for congress in the Third district, says:

"From a gentleman who has the confidence of the mayor the reporter learned the following facts: The mayor has looked the ground all over. He says that he has gained all the prestige that the mayoralty can give him. He has no real desire to run for congress or go to Washington for a brief term. He has an idea that he can make an exciting, strong campaign. If he secures the election in a district so largely Republican, it will place the entire Democratic party of the country under obligations to him, and open the road for him to the White House, to which he aspires. If he is defeated in such a district it will not hurt him. Per contra: He believes that by his running he can assist in the election of the entire Democratic county ticket. Also, that he will change about three or four senatorial districts, and thus make the legislature Democratic and assure the election of a Democratic United States senator in the place of David Davis. This is his aspiration now, to get to the United States senate. Again, he believes that the next national house of representatives will be Democratic by a small majority, and if he is elected, he will get the speakership. He has the ability and experience he thinks. Four years' presiding over the city council and four years in congress, the mayor thinks, ought to fit him for the place. Besides the mayor thinks the Republican party is going to pieces, and it is his duty now to place himself in the breach. He knows that he will not have to spend a cent for his campaign at least, and therefore he will run."

Gen. Butler Hesitates Modestly.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—It has been pretty well understood that Gen. Butler did not hanker after a nomination this year, but that the party leaders had determined to force one on him or compel him to relinquish his claim to leadership. The general does not feel like spending $20,000 again and weary himself out on the stump and all in vain. To-day he said: "I am still undecided whether I will accept the nomination for governor or not, but I shall make up my mind within a few days. It is quite a serious thing for me to say that I am willing to serve as governor of Massachusetts for a year. If I were as sure I should be beaten as some of the Republican newspapers are, it would be easier for me to accept. My law practice is so large that for me to be elected and serve as governor means an abandonment on my part of the interest of a great many clients, and the loss of at least $50,000 income.

He Speaks and He Expects.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—Senator Stewart, the independent Republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, speaks four nights in each week, and expects to poll 150,000 votes.

German Catholic Convention.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 25.—A convention of German Catholics was held in this city yesterday. The street parade was very imposing, the eight divisions numbering 5,762 men.

Yellow-Fever.

PENSACOLA, Sept. 25.—Thirty-nine new cases of fever and four deaths.

Unworthy Influence.

Many persons are prejudiced against proprietary medicines. They do not know why. Many narrow-minded doctors condemn them without knowing or caring to know in the least about them—solely through principle and self-interest. These are mostly young and inexperienced in practice. "Prejudice is strong where the judgment is weak." Many physicians, with better and more liberal ideas and education, endorse those remedies which they find most efficacious for the diseases for which they are recommended. One of these, strongly endorsed, and coming into popular use, for the Liver and Dyspepsia, is ZOPESA. 8 oz. bottles 75c, 6 dr. 10c. Sold by Prentice & Evenson.

ENGLISH GOSSIP.

The Trades Congress Declares for Free Land.

An Heretical Letter by Charles Darwin.

The Social Science Congress—"The Refuge of the Crotchet Mongers."

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Smalley's London special to The Tribune says: The trades congress has just concluded its annual session in Manchester. The congress pronounced in favor of the nationalization of the land doctrine promulgated by Mr. George, taken up by Mr. Davitt, and denounced by Mr. Parnell. Mr. Davitt is shortly to introduce the subject to a West-end audience in London. Mr. George has already laid the scheme before a gathering of clergymen. The distrust of Mr. Parnell among the English Liberals has been increased by the publication of a letter in which he insisted on the retirement of the Land-League candidate for Derry to secure the defeat of the solicitor general by his Tory opponent.

Mr. Bradlaugh has issued another address to the people. He says: "In this parliament I will sit." He does not say how he means to do it.

The Longfellow committee is gaining strength. All objections to the memorial on the ground of his being a foreigner has vanished.

In a letter written three years ago, Darwin says: "Christ and science have nothing to do with each other. I do not believe any revelation has ever been made as to the future life. Every one must draw his own conclusions from vague and contradictory probabilities." This is held to settle the question of his theological opinions.

Mr. Irving will produce "Much Ado About Nothing" in November. The parts are strongly cast.

Mrs. Langtry's "Rosalind" to-night is causing an immense amount of interest.

The social science congress, described as "The refuge of crotchetmongers," but which, nevertheless, does much sound work, is celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary in Nottingham.

The proposal to introduce the Chinese coolie labor here has roused the indignation of the London democrats, who are about to appeal to the prime minister to influence the Chinese government to stop the exportation. It is questionable whether coolie labor would succeed here, since it is impossible, save in one or two disagreeable and ill paid occupations, to undersell the natives.

Earl Spencer professes himself satisfied with the evidences his recent tour afforded him of returning peace in Ireland.

Mr. Gray's suggestion, made from Richmond jail in London, that the American government should modify its action in favor of Irish predictions has attracted no attention here. In such a matter the English foreign office would have the say, and the suggestion is obviously impracticable.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. Jenning's special to The World says: Our stock markets are naturally a good deal affected by the uncertainty in foreign affairs, but, upon the whole, business here has not to be said to be remarkably good. Our harvest, after all, came out much better than was anticipated, so that the farmers generally have more money at their command than they have had for several years past. The root crops as well as the cereals have been wonderfully good, and the spare cash thus obtained by the agriculturists will naturally flow toward the stock exchange. This fact is already keeping up the prices of securities beyond the point usually anticipated at this dull time of the financial year. All the American securities held in this country are good, but the general list is affected by the state of of the New York money market. The stringency is likely to be relaxed here next week in the opinion of competent judges.

"Baron" Albert Grant's palace at Kensington, descriptions of which have, I think, already been published in your columns, fetched only £10,000 at auction. It cost at least $250,000 to build. Everything was sold for "old building material," and a few builders assembled and had a regular "knock-out" auction, carting off the most valuable materials for a few shillings. The mantelpieces and fittings alone cost £50,000. The site of the mansion and its gardens will be made into fashionable streets.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Six thousand miners in North Staffordshire have given notice of a demand for an advance of 10 per cent. in wages.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 25.—Several bundles of The Irish World, recently received by express from America, were seized by the customs authorities, who held the packages a number of days and then released them.

Base Ball.

The Chicago club defeated Cleveland by 8 to 0. Buffalo beat Detroit by 11 to 1. Providence was victorious over Worcester by 4 to 0. In the contest for the championship a tie exists between Chicago and Providence, with Buffalo holding the third position. The remaining three games between Chicago and Buffalo will be played this week in Chicago.

Foreman Dickson and Frank H. Fall.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25—It will be remembered that Foreman Dickson, of the star route jury, accused Frank H. Fall of trying to corrupt him. The latter has just returned to Washington and enters a prompt denial of the charge.

A Father's Revenge.

COVINGTON, Ky., Sept. 25.—Thomas Dodd of this city while standing in his doorway beside his young bride, about midnight Saturday, was shot dead by Edward Welch, who stood on the sidewalk with his wife only a few feet away. Dodd had been intimate with a daughter of Welsh, and declined to marry her.

A Little Board Incubating.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The mining stock board is endeavoring to secure support for a call of railroad stocks and bonds. It proposes to make ten shares a good delivery, to do business from 9 to 4, and to sell one hundred seats at $2,500 each.

Mysterious Disappearance.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Mark S. Thompson, vice president of the Washington Ice company, mysteriously disappeared ten days ago, leaving an invalid wife. He is believed to have sunk from $50,000 to $75,000 in grain speculations.

Jay Gould will take a Trip.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The Sun announces that Jay Gould is building the fastest steam-yacht afloat, to be ready by July 4, when he will spend two years in a voyage around the world.

Agitation to be Stopped.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—At a meeting of subscribers to the Irish skirmishing fund, it was announced that Parnell, Davitt and Dillon request that agitation be stopped, as it shuts off the receipts of the Land league.

Postmaster at La Crosse.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—B. F. Bryant has been appointed postmaster at La Crosse, Wisconsin, Charles Seymour having resigned to accept the job of consul at Canton, China, at $5,500 a year.

The Mormon Temple at Nauvoo.

There are scarcely two accounts which exactly agree in every particular as to the dimensions and cost of the old Mormon temple at Nauvoo, Hancock County, Ill. We have carefully examined several of the, and give the results herewith. An English gentleman named Henry Caswell (quoted by Davidson and Stuve in their "History of Illinois") writes as follows in regard to the temple: "It is 120 feet by 100, and when completed will be 50 feet up to the eaves. Its expense is estimated at $300,000. The baptismal font is finished. It is a capacious laver, about 20 feet square, rests on the backs of twelve oxen, well-sculptured, and as large as life. The laver and oxen are wood, painted, but are to be gilded." Carpenter's "History of Illinois" speaks as follows of the temple: "The plan for this immense structure followed no particular order of architecture, although it more prominently resembled the Egyptian. In the basement was an immense laver, in imitation of the brazen sea of Solomon. It was supported by twelve gilded oxen, hewn from the trunks of large trees, with their faces projecting outward. The temple was never finished. After the expulsion of the Mormons from Nauvoo, commissioners were permitted to remain to dispose of this and other property. Several attempts were made to sell it for educational, manufacturing and other purposes, but they all failed, and the temple stood as waste property until the torch of the incendiary reduced it to ashes." Another account describes the temple as 130 feet long, by 90 feet wide, and of polished limestone; and another gives the dimensions as 130 feet long, 78 feet wide, 65 feet to the cornice, and 168 feet to the top of the cupola. In the year 1848 the building was taken on fire, and all destroyed except the walls, which on May 27, 1850, were overthrown by a tornado. Carpenter describes the place thus: "Nature has not formed along the Great River a more picturesque or eligible site for a large city. The succession of terraces ascending from the river until the high land is reached, furnish a gradual slope of remarkable beauty; noble groves of tall oaks, interspersed by winding vistas, clothe the ground to the summit of the ridge, from whence an immense undulating prairie is visible." The town of Nauvoo, according to the census of 1880, has a population of 1,402. When the Mormons were there, in the height of their power, the city had a population estimated at from 15,000 to 18,000.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Y. Times.*

Shareholders and Directors in England.

The law regulating the relations of directors to the shareholders whom they represent has been further elucidated by a judgment given by the Master of the Rolls, Lords Justices Brett and Cotton concurring, in an appeal from a decision of Vice-Chancellor Bacon. The official liquidator of the Exchango Banking Company applied, under the 165th section of the Company Act, 1862, against three directors and the trustee in bankruptcy of a fourth, to recover from them sums amounting to over £3,000 distributed by the Board as dividends among the shareholders. No profits had been made by the company during the years in which this money was divided, and the so-called dividends were consequently payments out of capital. It was argued that this return of capital to the shareholders constituted a breach of trust and misapplication of the company's money, for which the directors are liable, and the Vice-Chancellor affirmed this view. The Court of Appeals, in dismissing the appeal of the directors, laid down very clearly the view taken by the law of their conduct, and completely demolished the technicalities in which they sought to take refuge. A company constituted under the act of 1862, with limited liability, declares by its memorandum of association that a certain capital is appropriated to the carrying on of its business. Having done this it has no power, by any method whatever, to reduce that declared capital without the sanction of the court, obtained through the machinery created by the act of 1867. No sanction given, even by a general meeting of shareholders, to the payment of dividends out of capital is of any validity whatever. Reduction is wholly ultra vires of the company, and can be legally effected only in the manner legally prescribed. Besides this, it is held by the Court of Appeals that the creditors of a company trusting, as they necessarily must, to its representation of the amount of its capital, have a right to forbid the return of it to the shareholders and a remedy against the directors who so misapply it. The vigor and lucidity of this judgment leave nothing to be desired, except ampler means than are always available for detecting offenders.—London Times.

TUTT'S PILLS

A DISORDERED LIVER IS THE BANE

of the present generation. It is for the Cure of this disease and its attendants, SICK-HEADACHE, BILIOUSNESS, DYSPEPSIA, CONSTIPATION, PILES, etc., that TUTT'S PILLS have gained a world-wide reputation. No Remedy has ever been discovered that acts so gently on the digestive organs, giving them vigor to assimilate food. As a natural result, the Nervous System is Braced, the Muscles are Developed, and the Body Robust.

Chills and Fever.

E. RIVAL, a Planter at Bayou Sara, La., says: My plantation is in a malarial district. For several years I could not make half a crop on account of bilious diseases and chills. I was nearly discouraged when I began the use of TUTT'S PILLS. The result was marvelous: my laborers soon became hearty and robust, and I have had no further trouble.

They relieve the engorged Liver, cleanse the Blood from poisonous humors, and cause the bowels to act naturally, without which no one can feel well.

Try this remedy fairly, and you will gain a healthy Digestion, Vigorous Body, Pure Blood, Strong Nerves, and a Sound Liver. Price, 25 Cents. Office, 35 Murray St., N. Y.

SPECIFICATIONS for grading that portion of Terrace street, between Ravine and Washington streets, in the First Ward.

FIRST, Said Terrace street is to be graded its full width, from Ravine street to Washington street, in conformity with the grade of said street, filed in the office of the City Engineer, May 8th, 1871, and adopted and established by the Common Council, May 23, 1871.

SECOND, The side walks of said street are to be fourteen (14) feet wide, and they are to be graded in conformity with the grade of the center line of said street, modified by the grades of the sidewalks of intersecting streets crossing said Terrace street within the limits above specified, so that the sidewalks of said street, and the sidewalks of streets crossing the same, within the limits herein specified, may properly conjoin. The inner margins of the sidewalks of said street are to be so graded as to be uniformly four (4) inches below their outer margins, the slope between their outer and inner margins being uniform.

THIRD, The side drains are to be located next adjacent to the sidewalks, the inner margins of the sidewalks and the outer margins of the drains forming one and the same line; the bottoms of the side drains on a line eighteen (18) inches in from and parallel to the inner margins of the side walks are to be uniformly fifteen (15) inches below the sidewalks at their inner margins, and is to be on uniform slope from the top of the sidewalks as graded at their inner margins to the bottoms of the side drains, graded as above designated.

FOURTH, The street proper, or road-bed, shall be graded so as to crown uniformly in the arc of a circle from the bottoms of the side drains to the grade of the street at its center line.

FIFTH, The earth excavated in grading said street within the limits above specified, shall be placed in the required embankments, and shall be measured and paid for in excavation only. If there is any excess of earth excavated in grading said street, within the limits above specified, over and above what is required to make the embankments within said limits, or if there is not sufficient earth excavated in grading said street, within said limits, to make the embankments required in said limits; then in the first case such excess of earth, not required in embankments, shall be removed from said street by the contractor and deposited elsewhere; and in the second case the contractor shall procure elsewhere such amount of earth as may be required in embankments, over and above that furnished by excavation in grading said street within the limits herein specified; and there shall be no extra charge made or allowed from the removal from said street of such excess of earth, or for procuring elsewhere such lack of earth, as the case may be; but the price paid per cubic yard for excavation in grading said street shall cover the whole cost thereof; provided, however, that if there is more earth required in embankment than is furnished by excavation in grading said street within said limits, then the contractor, for such earth procured elsewhere to complete the embankments, shall receive the same price per cubic yard of earth, measured in excavation, as he receives per cubic yard of earth excavated in said street and no more.

SIXTH, The work shall be done under the supervision of, and in a manner satisfactory to the City Engineer, and as he shall direct, and it shall be completed within such time as may be specified in the contract.

SEVENTH, After the grading of such street shall have been completed, it shall be kept in good condition by the contractor for a reasonable time, that the Aldermen of the First ward may take action in the personal acceptance of the same.

EIGHTH, All proposals to be sealed, and to state the price per cubic yard at which the work will be done, and to be addressed to the City Clerk.

EDWARD RUGER,
City Engineer.

Dated September 9, 1882.

NOTICE.

NOTICE is hereby given that at the regular meeting of the Common Council of the city of Janesville, to be held September 25th, 1882, said council will proceed to act in relation to the work mentioned in the foregoing specifications, all of the above mentioned work to be completed on or before November 1, 1882, and until the time of said meeting of the Council, sealed proposals for the performance of said work will be received by the City Clerk.

Briefiets

—The City Council will meet to-night.

—The politician goes about with a knowing look.

—Every member of the Janesville Guards is requested to attend a meeting at the armory to-night.

—A man named John Beck, was awarded one day in jail by Judge Patten to-day for getting drunk enough to be arrested.

—The sale of reserved sats for the Titcomb benefit entertainment next Friday night will begin at Prentice & Evenson's to-morrow morning.

—A number of blue winged teal were seen hanging up in front of the grocery stores. They are becoming plentiful about the marshes in this vicinity.

—The Council at its meeting to-night should ascertain the names of those who used the fire department apparatus to drench Louis Stark, the dead man.

—Two tramps, who were arrested as vagrants were brought up in the municipal court to-day and sentenced to two days in jail, on a diet of bread and water

—The Sisters of St. Joseph's Convent, in this city, will hold a fair, commencing October 31, and continuing to November 8. Apollo hall will be the scene of the fair.

—The entertainment to be given at Lappin's Music Hall to-night under the supervison of Mrs. Day, will be prolific of amusement and agreeable intellectual features.

—Mr. H. G. Reichwald, of the Merchants' and Mechanics' bank, has purchased the house formerly owned by Alexander Graham, in the First ward, for $3,500.

—It is about time for the ladies to begin practicing on cakes, if they intend to compete for the prize offered by C. E. Andrews & Co., for the best cake made by a Rock county lady, with Andrew's Pearl Baking Powder.

—The Walworth county fair, will open at Elkhorn to-morrow and continue three days. The management have secured a variety of attractions for the amusement of visitors, and the exhibit is fine. Trains leaving here at 7 o'clock in the morning arrive at the fair grounds at 8:20 a. m.

—The Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Patrick's church, have secured the Rev. Father VanderEnder, of Milwaukee, to deliver a series of lectures here. The first lecture will be given next Wednesday night, when the subjects of the succeeding lectures of the series, will be announced.

—This afternoon, a couple of roan ponies hitched near Hanchett and Sheldon's store on South Main street, amused themselves by kicking the shafts off the buggy to which they were harnessed. They were very innocent looking, and kicked just for fun. The rig, it was said, belonged to a livery establishment at Milton Junction.

—The funeral of the late Frank H. Wright, who died of consumption on Friday, took place yesterday afternoon. The remains were taken from the residence of Mr. Samuel Wright, father of the deceased, to the First M. E. church, where the funeral services were held by the Rev. J. D. Holmes in the presence of a large number of sorrowing friends, who also accompanied the remains to their last resting place in Oak Hill cemetery.

—At about 9:30 o'clock this morning, a horse attached to a light wagon, ran away from in front of Winslow's C. O. D. store, on West Milwaukee street, and succeeded in damaging the vehicle somewhat. The horse was not hitched, and in walking the wheels of the wagon struck some barrels on the sidewalk, and the rig was upset. This frightened the animal, and he started east on a wild gallop, but was caught by a young man named Barlow, before he had passed McKey's corner. The rig was owned by Mrs. Gibbs, who lives east of the High School, and who was attending to some business, at the time the accident happened.

—The last sad duty of a family and friends was paid yesterday, to all that remained of the late Wm. Keating, whose body was brought here Saturday afternoon from Baraboo, where he died last Thursday night. The funeral services were held in St. Patrick's church the Rev Father McGinnity officiating. The sacred edifice was well filled with friends, young and old, who have known the deceased during his long residence here. Mr. T. H. Keating, a son of deceased, of Boone, Iowa, was present with his family and other relatives from a distance were also noticed. The funeral was a large one, and proved how general was the esteem in which the departed had been held by those who knew him.

Parting from a Pastor.

The Rev. T. W. McLean preached his farewell sermon in Trinity church yesterday at the morning service, to an unusually large congregation, a number of people not members of the church, attending to testify their appreciation of Mr. McLean as a man and a citizen. The sermon was well chosen, and replete with sentiments expressive of the regret experienced by the minister in breaking off associations of four years existence. In the exordium Mr. McLean dwelt upon the duties of a minister's calling, asking the congregation to cloak with the mantle of charity any shortcomings, any faults of commission or omission of which he might have been guilty during his years of exacting service, and interceded for his successor, asking the love and confidence for him, which the departing pastor had himself enjoyed. In the evening, the church was again filled with members of the parish and citizens generally, who took that opportunity to say farewell to the gentleman, who by the purity of his life, charity, and manly gentleness, has secured the respect and esteem of every member of the community. Never did a congregation part from their pastor with more genuine regret than did Trinity church last night, when bidding Mr, McLean farewell. His successor has not yet been secured, though negotiations are now pending with several ministers, one of whom is confidently expected to accept the proposition made him. In the interim the Rev. C. M. Pullen, of Christ Church will hold services in Trinity. Mr. McLean left to-day for his new charge in Ypsilanti, Michigan.

Total	34

On the fifth ballot the name of S. H. Slaymaker was withdrawn. It was not until the eighth ballot that a nomination was made when Mr. John Conley was declared the choice of the Convention by the following vote.

Conley	19
Pierce	12
Sayre	1
Total	34

The nomination was made unanimous and a committee was appointed to wait on Mr. Conley and inform him of his nomination.

Mr. Henry Tarrant introduced a resolution proposing to change the basis of representation in the Third Assembly Convention, giving the smaller towns additional delegates to the Convention or ten more than is now the order, The resolution excited considerable discussion but was finally referred to the District committee.

The following resolution was read and adopted:

WHEREAS Prohibition is a question of growing importance and,

WHEREAS The best interests of our commonwealth are in this direction.

Therefore Resolved that we earnestly urge the nominee of this convention if elected to support legislation favoring the submission of prohibitory constitutional amendment to the people.

On motion the District committee was appointed as follows

J. P. Towne, P. M. Green and Henry Tarrant.

BUYING A SAFETY PIN.

A Congressman Loses a Button and Sends his Son in search of a Substitute.

A gentleman who attended the reunion of the Army of the Cumberland in Milwaukee tells the following story. A Wisconsin Congressman and his son were in conversation with Gov. Rusk, when an uncomfortable feeling about the lower portion of his anatomy reminded the M. C. that a button had flown from its fastening on one of his garments. An inch or two of red flannel showing over his boot, was conclusive evidence of this fact, and fearful lest the public would imagine him a Mexican bull fighter instead of a representative of the people's interest in the national councils, he hurriedly stepped over to a figure of Pocahontas painted red, in front of a cigar store, and placing his foot on the pedestal looked as unconcerned as could be. The slightest movement caused more red flannel to protrude from beneath his black trousers, and though the hotel was not a great way distant, it was plainly impossible to reach it, without displaying a yard or two of flannel. His only redemption was a safety pin. The Governor said he had never worn one, but thought that a furnishing store over the way might have them. It didn't look just right for a Governor or an M. C. to go skirmishing after a safety pin, so the young man was sent after the article. Just at that time a safety pin was of more consequence to the gentleman from Wisconsin than a re-election, or government patronage. The young man went into the store, thinking it was easy enough to get a safety pin, but on looking around he changed his mind. The clerks were all girls, of the interesting age, and the young man, who is of a rather susceptible nature, began to wish that a safety pin was called by some other name. If it had been a neck-tie, a collar button, or even a pair of suspenders, the difficulty would not have been so great, but his delicacy couldn't be worked up to speaking to one of those pretty, innocent looking girls about so suggestive a thing as a safety pin. After looking around disconsolately for a few minutes, the young man descried a man in the rear of the store. His heart bounded with joy, and in as short a time as it took that button to bid farewell to the M. C's nether trousers, the son reached the other end of the store, and hopefully told his wants. His heart sank, when the unsympathetic floor-walker pointed out a blushing maiden behind the counter, and informed him that she presided over the safety pin department. Surveying himself, to see if there was anything about his clothes indicative of the need of a safety pin, the dutiful son dragged his weary way over to the young lady. With a sort of water-melon color look in his face and a charitable look in his eyes, he brokenly murmured;

"A friend of mine asked me to get him a safety pin, have you got any?"

"How many do you want?"

"How do you sell them?"

"Ten cents a dozen."

"Ye Gods!" thought the young man. "I wonder if she thinks I have't got a sound stitch."

"O, he only needs one—his—his—his—he lost his cuff buttons. The young lady doubtless wondered what a young man wanted with a safety pin as a sleeve button, but she said nothing. Giving her a half dollar, and receiving forty-nine cents in change, the young man rushed over to where he had left his anxious parent and the Governor, and with a look which seemed to say, "It was hard, but I did it for your sake," handed over the little brass trick.

Personal.

Death of Mrs. Belden.

News has been received from Iowa giving the death of Mrs. Roxana M. Belden, who resided in Janesville several years. She removed to Iowa three years ago this fall, and was living with some of her children. Recently she was afflicted with an abscess on one of her arms, and afterward was taken with blood-poison, from the immediate effects of which she died on Tuesday last. She was 62 years of age, and was born in the State of New York, but spent the greater portion of her early life near Mentor, Ohio, and was a near neighbor of the Garfields for a number of years. During her residence of a few years in Janesville, she gained the warm friendship of many, who will deeply regret to hear of her death. She was the mother of the Misses Ellen and Viola Belden, formerly of this city, and now living in Chicago.

REAL ESTATE COLUMN.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.
REAL ESTATE TO EXCHANGE

H. H. BLANCHARD,

The Real Estate Broker of Janesville, deals more extensively in Real Estate than any other Real Estate agent in Southern Wisconsin. He buys, sells, exchanges and rents Real Estate. He has in his list a great number of large and small farms, in Rock Co., some with cheap improvements, and not so well located, and some with valuable improvements and excellently located for sale or exchange. Likewise some timber lots, one near the city.

His city property list is large, comprising some thirty Houses and Lots, with prices ranging from $500 to $5,000. Also a large quantity of Western lands, and a large number of Western improved farms for sale or to exchange.

If you wish to buy, sell or exchange Real Estate, or acquire any information pertaining thereto, call on him at his office and he will gladly and faithfully render any service in his power.

He deals on the square, and guarantees perfect titles on all property sold by him. Office hours 9 to 12 o'clock A. M., 8 to 10 o'clock P. M.

If you place your real estate in my hands to sell, you will not be required to sign a contract containing a 90-day or any other unreasonable provision.
